—The Times Recorder tells of a Zanesville masher who came to grief at the hands of a young lady he was attempting to impress with his charms on a B. & O. Ry. train Tuesday. Rife, a prosperous grocer of Marietta, who was formerly on the Daily Gazette staff, but shook the newspaper business for something more substantial, was in the city today disguised as a millionaire, looking up old friends. Mrs. Rife has been the guest of Mrs. David C. Rinehart, of south Mulberry street, while Charlie has been at Circleville visiting his parents. Mrs. Rinehart is from Marietta and she and Mrs. Rife are old acquaintances."

—Miss Nina Scott, of the West Side, sister of Mr. John Scott, died at the home of her brother last night at 7:15 o'clock, after an illness of more than a year. The disease which caused her death was softening of the brain. Miss Scott was about 44 years of age and was a most estimable lady.

—Dr. R. B. Hart is the latest convert to the use of the telephone. His number is 164. The list of subscribers grows apace, and we are glad to see it, for it makes each box, worth more to the subscriber.

—An unusually fast run was made on the B. & O. between Grafton and this city last Friday by engineer Pat Flannery on engine No. 873. He left Grafton 45 minutes late with fast train No. 3, consisting of eight coaches, and arrived here on time, making the run in 2 hours and 45 minutes. Taking into consideration the size of the train the run was one of the quickest that has been made on the Branch for some time. —Sentinel.

—Charles Stotsberry, of Perryopolis, was arrested by Marshal Glidden of this place, on Monday and brought before Mayor Phillips, charged with shooting at Conductor Pollard, of the B. Z. & C. Ry. As we learn it young Stotsberry got on the train at this place. He was on the front end of the baggage car and was not seen until he had passed Devold's station. Conductor Pollard asked him for his fare, which he refused to pay and he was put off. After the train had stopped at the water station, just beyond, he was found on the rear platform. Conductor Pollard again demanded his fare which he again refused to pay, drew a revolver and threatened to shoot Mr. Pollard, who stopped the train and pushed him off. Stotsberry then shot and passengers on the train say that they not only heard the report of the revolver but heard the bullet strike. He was taken before Mayor Phillips Monday evening and a preliminary hearing set for Wednesday, and Stotsberry was put under bond in the sum of $300 for his appearance, which was furnished. The preliminary hearing was held yesterday, Wednesday, but at the time of going to press we have not learned the result. We suppose he was bound over to court. He denies shooting at Mr. Pollard, but says that he shot into the ground. —Caldwell Journal.

—May Smith Robbins and a clever company in Little Trixie Saturday night.

"Little Trixie" proved to be an avalanche of refined entertainment last evening at the Standard Theatre, being a succession of novelties and surprising situations, combined with the merriest of pretty songs and delightful dances. It is what may be termed a laughing success, being a feast of fun and a flow of music, and is presented by a royal coterie of cultivated artists. Besides, the play tells an interesting story of wrong that is righted by the energy and ingenuity of a bright little waif that is as smart as the hungry pangs of poverty can make one. To ferret out the machinations of scheming villainy, the heroine assumes a quintette of disguises, the principal of which stands out with marked distinctness being one of the most pronounced character studies on the stage. Among other assumptions, that of an old Irish woman, just off the ship, as portrayed by Miss May Smith Robbins, contains a delicious brogue that is as catchy as it is natural.

Miss Robbins is a peerless little Irish comedienne, and as the romp heiress she is a veritable whirlwind of sparkling vivacity, carrying everything before her. The part affords her the fullest scope for her inimitable versatility, bringing back to the old theatre-goer memories of the once idolized Lotta, for she is a sweet singer, an agile and graceful dancer and a perfect master of many dialects. —Philadelphia Item, Jan. 22, 1895.

A Belpre Product.

BELPRE, Feb. 20. —George Jackson, the colored coachman, who has become famous in the Pearl Bryan case and many of whose statements do not "hold water," is a Belpre, O. product, being a son of John Jackson, who was well known in this section. George left Belpre about 15 years ago, when he was a boy, removing with his family to Springfield. He was known as "Commy," a nickname for Commodore which for some reason had become attached to his name. He had a brother who became a famous "boy preacher," and who also had quite a reputation for adorning the truth with embellishments not germane thereto, not to say utterly hiding the small grain of fact, if fact existed.

Miss May Smith Robbins, in her charming comedy, Little Trixie, will appear at the Opera House on Saturday, Feb. 22nd, Washington's birthday. Miss Robbins and her merry company did the banner business of the season for the Grand Opera House in Wheeling, turning people away for four performances and having to place the orchestra on the stage to make more room the last two.

Both Miss Robbins and her play come well recommended to us and that they will have a packed house is understood.
